1. The library is a smoke-free building.
3. Pets are not permitted in the library, with the exception of guide dogs or service dogs.
4. Disturbances
If a patron causes a disturbance in the library, and ignores the request for due consideration of the rights of other patrons, the patron will be asked to leave. When necessary the police will be notified. If an individual ignores oral warnings to leave the premises.

The meeting area of the library is not available for community use outside of regular library hours due to limitations of staff and security.

One role of the Pembroke Public Library is to serve as an access point for current information on community organizations, issues and services. Notices and posters will be displayed on the bulletin board as space is available with the following considerations:

1. Material for posting or distribution within the library must be approval by the CEO
2. Material advertising commercial endeavors is not displayed unless the project is specifically related to the objectives of the library and the permission of the CEO has been granted beforehand.
3. The board does not necessarily support the aims and objectives of the groups whose material may be displayed in the library, nor is it required to display all material submitted.
4. The notices and posters will remain on display for a time mutually agreed to or until just after the event has been held.

The board accepts approved materials for display depending on available space. All articles on display will be left at the owner's risk. The library does accept not responsibility for the loss, defacement or return of materials to organizations or individuals.

Except for sales or fundraising events of a special local community nature or events which are co-sponsored by the library, and authorized by the CEO beforehand, no sales are permitted in the library.

No soliciting will be allowed in the library.
